

Code of Ethics

As a Life-Cycle Celebrant®, I adhere to the Celebrant Institute and Foundation's Code of Ethics and Professionalism in all of my work with my clients.

This means that I will:

- Serve you with respect, sensitivity, and professionalism, and provide all services in a timely manner.
- Offer you a personalized ceremony that includes your loved one's story, as revealed through conversations with you and with others that you wish to include.
- Ensure that you have complete choice of and final say over the ceremony and ensure that my personal beliefs are immaterial to this process.
- Encourage you to choose and approve a ceremony that is satisfying to you.
- Respectfully provide a ceremony that is as accurate as possible in all respects, including the pronunciation of the names of people, places, and things.
- Perform the ceremony in a professional, prepared, and appropriate manner.
- Provide a service that recognizes the unique personalities of your loved one, and is sensitive to your needs, wishes, values, philosophical and spiritual beliefs, and cultural backgrounds.
- Not discriminate on the basis of gender, race, religion, ethnicity, national origin, age, disability, or sexual identity or orientation.
